Concepts of tests and measurements will be emphasized for interpreting research results and gathering data for applied research. Students will develop a project based upon their research. Student will apply concepts learned within their own setting under the guidance of the professor.

Required Text:

Hendricks, C. (2009). Improving Schools through action research: A comprehensive guide for educators. Upper Saddle River, NJ: Pearson.

American Psychological Association. (2009). Publication manual of the American Psychological Association (6th ed.). Washington, DC: American Psychological Association.

- Increase knowledge and understanding about different research methodologies.
- Reflect on the learning process.
- Determine an action research agenda.
- Develop and design an action research plan.
- Develop professional competence in designing, writing, and presenting research materials utilizing the 6TH EDITION APA format and style.
- Locate and evaluate research materials.

- Evaluate previous research on a self-selected topic of interest.

Competencies/Standards:

You can find a copy of the Master of Arts in Curriculum & Instruction INTASC Standards and TExES Competencies in Blackboard.

Methods of Instruction:

Since this course is primarily online, the students are responsible for understanding the assignments and learning the material. If questions arise, it is important to ask the professor immediately for help since many of the tasks build on one another. Candidates are responsible for participation in discussion boards, blogs, and activities. Individual tasks are expected and will be used to determine the final grade. Class will consist of online discussions, individual participation, and papers.

Course Requirements:

The purpose of graduate education is to provide for advanced and specialized training beyond the baccalaureate program. Graduate study is intended to strengthen the academic and professional competence of the candidate, to develop the candidate's capacity for independent study, to familiarize students with past and current research, to train the student in the techniques of research, and to enable the candidate to relate his or her research to the investigations of other scholars and derive significant implications from the relationships.

Graduate study presupposes a broad background of knowledge, an adequate preparation in appropriate fields of study at the baccalaureate level, and a command of skills required to carry on intensive research and investigation with a high degree of resourcefulness and self-direction. Generally speaking, only candidates with superior undergraduate academic records are qualified to pursue study at the graduate level.

It should be noted that graduate studies differ from undergraduate studies in the following respects: (1) The candidate is expected to assume greater responsibility and to exercise more individual initiative. (2) More extensive and intensive reading is required. (3) Greater emphasis is placed on productive research, with particular emphasis on the use of primary materials. (4) Seminar methods are employed with greater frequency, as greater class participation by the candidate is required. (5) Less instruction is provided in content, survey-type lecture courses.

Graduate study thus involves far more than the passing of a given number of courses and the fulfillment of certain minimum requirements. The candidate cannot be content solely with earning acceptable grades. The candidate must continually satisfy the Graduate Faculty in the major field by displaying superior intellectual powers and scholarly commitment in order to maintain graduate status and good standing in the school.

1. Candidates' Participation:

Candidates should participate actively and enthusiastically in all online discussions. Readings and school experiences will prepare candidates for discussions.

When prompted by learning modules, discussion boards, PowerPoint presentations, or at any other direction for participation, the minimum response from each student is: (1) to post a response to the original or initial posting and/or question; and (2) to post a response to another student's posting. More frequent responses are both allowed and encouraged so that each student can learn from peers and professor's insights.

2. Candidates' Written Work:

- Demonstrates content quality and clarity that emphasizes depth and breadth, reflection and insights, scholarly discussion using scholarly vocabulary.
- Clearly shows a high level of understanding regarding classroom discipline/the topic of discussion.
- Demonstrates writing quality and clarity, including mechanics, spelling, grammar, appropriate language.
- Demonstrates appropriate and accurate inclusion of authority to support discussion, with citations that follow a scholarly (APA) format.
- Demonstrates appropriate use of respectful person-first language (e.g., "student with dyslexia" rather than "dyslexic student").
- Demonstrates an overall appearance according to APA format (title, page, 12pt font, 1 inch margin, and double spaced), completeness, and timeliness.

3. Candidates' Communication:

Candidates should maintain open communication with the instructor. Ask questions in a timely manner to provide time for the instructor to respond prior to due date. Candidates are expected to check Blackboard and ASU email on a regular basis, preferably daily. Candidates are expected to complete assignments and meet all deadlines for submission of coursework.

Required Readings:

Hendricks, C. (2009). Improving Schools through action research: A comprehensive guide for educators. Upper Saddle River, NJ: Pearson.

American Psychological Association. (2009). Publication manual of the American Psychological Association (6th ed.). Washington, DC: American Psychological Association.

Evaluation:

Each assignment will be worth a varying number of points. Grades will be determined by the percentage of the total possible points earned.

A= 90-100%

B= 80-89%

C= 70-79%

If the initial grade for the literature review and methodology are below a 95%, then you can earn up to 95% of the points when you submit the final proposal with a literature review and methodology that has all the original comments addressed.
