ISSA 3310: Introduction to the Discipline of Intelligence

Course Description/Overview

This course provides understanding of the basic elements of intelligence -- collection, analysis, dissemination, counterintelligence, and covert action -- through an understanding of the U.S. Intelligence Community (IC) as well as through a review of past historical events in which intelligence has played a key role. Students will examine the difference between intelligence and information, and extrapolate from that the various steps of the intelligence cycle, as well as their purpose. Students will review the "lessons learned" that have come out of U. S. intelligence successes and failures, and specify the role of the Department of Homeland Security and resulting changes to the IC. The course will also give students an understanding of, and keen insight into, the role intelligence agencies play in strategy and policy development, and how policymakers use (or misuse) intelligence estimates. Finally, the course will review intelligence failures, consider intelligence reform issues, and evaluate the need for change. The intelligence reform lesson will emphasize the importance of preparing intelligence for and providing it to policymakers and our nation's warfighters in a manner that results in information sharing and underscores a renewed post-9/11 commitment to conduct intelligence activities in a manner that fully respects and protects American civil liberties and privacy.

Students will look at two case studies illustrating intelligence-policy failures and how such failures influence threat assessments, military strategy, and foreign policy.

These questions are at the heart of recent national security controversies, including the 9/11 attacks and the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan. In each case the relationship between intelligence and policy broke down—with disastrous consequences. This course is an intense examination of how the intelligence process and its various disciplines such as collection, analysis, and dissemination of intelligence integrate with one another and contribute to addressing the national security issues and intelligence challenges facing the United States. The course is designed to be highly interactive, value your experiences and your well-thought-out positions and opinions, and to give you an opportunity to showcase your intellect as an active participant in, and contributor towards, the national dialogue and debate on hot topics of the day. I encourage you to read national newspapers or other sources and to be prepared to open each class session with the current news of the day.

Required Texts:
Course Objectives

Objectives: As a result of completing this course, the student will be able to:

1. Demonstrate how the intelligence cycle functions.
2. Understand the key intelligence functions.
3. Demonstrate a working knowledge of the intelligence-policy challenges facing the United States and how the intelligence and policy nexus form our framework for national security.
4. Demonstrate how the Intelligence enterprise contributes to the policymaking process.
5. Comprehend the complexities of intelligence reform requirements in view of failures in the intelligence-policy nexus.
6. Understand the complexities and challenges of intelligence reform measures.

Grading Policies

Grades will be based on an ability to organize the material, integrate relevant concepts and theories, and present them in appropriate forms.

A Note on Grades: ISSA 3310 is a colloquium (meaning a group discussion, from the Latin Colloqui – to talk together, to have a conversation). As such, weekly participation in the discussion threads is expected and forms part of the grade.

Student Assignments: Each student must participate in weekly discussions, produce a PowerPoint presentation, submit a scholarly critique, and write one essay.

Angelo State University employs a letter grade system. Grades in this course are determined on a percentage scale:

- A = 90 – 100 %
- B = 80 – 89 %
- C = 70 – 79 %
- D = 60 – 69 %
- F = 59 % and below.

Course Organization/ Learning Outcomes/ and Required Readings:

Part I: Understanding the Purpose of Intelligence

Lesson 1: Defining Intelligence in the Context of National Security

Learning Outcomes:

1. Explain what intelligence is in the context of national security.
2. Comprehend which agencies comprise the Intelligence Community (IC) and the important roles and contributions each makes towards forming and shaping US national security policy.
3. Explain why we have 16 separate and distinct agencies representing the IC.

Lesson 2: Key Functions of Intelligence - Who Does What?

Learning Outcomes:

1. Describe the agencies comprising the Intelligence Community (IC).
2. Describe three key functions of the intelligence enterprise – Collection, Analysis, and Dissemination – and how they interact between the intelligence process and policy.
3. Explain the intelligence "macro" cycle and the process for executing key intelligence functions.
4. Comprehend how the intelligence cycle works and contributes to national security policy.

Lesson 3: Covert Intelligence and Counterintelligence Operations

Learning Outcomes:

1. Comprehend what covert intelligence is and means as opposed to clandestine operations.
2. Comprehend the value of success and failure of covert operations.
3. Comprehend the risk and challenges with conducting covert and counterintelligence operations.
4. Comprehend the difference between counterintelligence and covert operations.
