COURSE DESCRIPTION
This class explores several policy areas that face urban areas and beyond. Unlike states, cities have no constitutional standing and policy is created and executed through interactions between federal, state and local government entities in addition to interest groups and private sources of capital. As a result, policy making is often difficult. The course will begin with an overview of the history of urban governance and of how public policy is made. Through focusing attention on health care, criminal justice, social and immigration policy we explore issues that have been prevalent throughout urban areas across the country that will inform our study of public policy. Particular attention will be paid to policy making in Texas.

LEARNING OUTCOMES
Students completing this course will:
1. Understand the basic aspects of urban governance and federalism
2. Acquire knowledge of specific public policy areas
3. Gain the ability to critically analyze types of public policies
4. Improve written and oral communication skills
5. Demonstrate intercultural awareness and civic engagement.
