Monday and Wednesday 1:00 to 2:15 PM

Office: 201 - D Academic Building
Office Hours: 1100 – 1245 Monday and Wednesday, after class, and by appointment

Required Textbooks:

*PLEASE NOTE: The two White Paper references above have to be ordered directly from the company, either by phone or the listed web site. DO NOT delay in getting these supplemental texts. Information from them will be included on the exams. They are not available in the book store. If you get them from Amazon or another source, be sure they are the 2017 publications.

It is important for the student to attend each class session as scheduled. You should refer to the University statement on absenteeism, which can be found in
By completion of the course, students should demonstrate a thorough understanding of the following areas:

a. Forces of development and their impact on the aging process
b. Physical health and mental health changes related to aging
c. Environmental factors
d. Changes in cognitive processes: memory, perception and attention
e. What happens to our intelligence?
f. Personality changes
g. Relationships
h. Dying and bereavement
i. Clinical issues, including assessment and intervention
j. The future for the aging population

Schedule of course of study:

The class will spend approximately one week on each assigned chapter in the text as well as on other assigned outside reading, handouts and supplemental texts.

Your grade will be assessed on point a system; the total points available will be 230. There will be four major examinations during the semester. These exams will account for 120 points. There will be one major research paper (30 points) required from a list of topics provided or a related topic of your choice/interest. Observations/visitations are an important part of this class and four such reports will be required (60 points). These include: a. One visit to a regular nursing home. b. One visit to an assisted living facility. c. One visit to a closed, locked or secure unit for advanced dementia patients. d. One visit with an elderly person (70+) who is still in the work force on a regular basis. These should be thorough and concise reports and will be graded carefully. Each report should be a minimum of 3 pages in length. Visitation reports will be due on November 8, 2017. Your attendance and classroom participation will be worth 20 points. The tests will be taken from the texts, lectures and other assigned materials. You will be advised of which materials you will be held responsible for on the tests. The research papers will be due on October 11, 2017. Research paper should be written in APA style format. Do Not simply down-load information from the internet. It is very easy to discern writing styles. I want to hear from you, your ideas, conclusions, etc., expressed in your own words and in your own writing style. This paper should be a minimum of 10 pages in length. Title pages, abstract pages and referral pages DO NOT count, ergo, 10 pages of content. You should have a minimum of 5 references.

PLEASE NOTE!! These due dates are firm. Points will be deducted for late papers and reports. Please save your procrastination for other classes!

All numerical grades will be converted to percentages and these will be expressed as letter grades as indicated by the scale below:

Extra Credit Points

These extra credit submissions will be worth a maximum of 4 points each and there are several ways you can earn them. Participation in obtaining extra credit points will be expected and will be an essential part of meeting the stated goals of the class. Please note, these opportunities are in addition to any assigned reports, exercises, etc. NOT in lieu of them!

Make-up exams

If you know in advance that you will have to be absent, or in the event of a sudden illness or emergency, contact or see me to arrange an alternate testing time. Unless under extreme circumstances, there will be no make-up of the fourth exam.

Honor Code

Angelo State University expects its students to maintain complete honesty and integrity in their academic pursuits. Students are responsible for understanding the Academic Honor Code, which is available on the web at:
Plagiarism is a serious matter and since you are required to write papers in this course, this topic is thoroughly discussed in the Academic Honor code.

Disabilities

Persons with disabilities which may warrant academic accommodations must contact the Office Student Affairs, Room 112, University Center, in order request such accommodations prior to any accommodations being implemented. You are encouraged to make this request early in the semester so that appropriate arrangements can be made. Contact information: 325-942-2047; Fax/TDD325-942-2211 e-mail: studentservices@tangelo.edu

PLEASE NOTE!

Use the phone numbers and e-mail cited in this syllabus! I am on campus a limited amount of time and do not regularly check or utilize the campus e-mail system, except for all-class e-mails. I regularly check my e-mail at home and if I am not at home, I have an answering machine on which you can leave a message. I return all calls and answer all e-mails promptly. Do not worry about bothering me at home; I want to ensure that we have good communication channels open for the duration of the course. So, do not hesitate to call or e-mail. If you know you are going to be absent, or if you cannot attend class due to illness or emergencies, please let me know so I can excuse your absence. Due to University requirements, roll will be taken at each class meeting.
