Introduction: This course will meet the requirements of the CRIJ 4091 course.

The major goal in this course is to acquaint you with the essentials associated with the process of planning, researching and reporting on a significant topic in Criminal Justice.

This will require you to

1. Identify and define the topic you wish to investigate.
2. Complete a formal brief proposal outlining the
   a. Scope and limitations of your study
   b. Research process to be used
   c. Format for the findings and conclusions you will include in your report.
3. Produce a formal research report in an acceptable academic style of at least 15 pages.
4. Participate in a discussion of your completed project with the instructor.

Assessment: You will be given instructive comments at each stage of the project. Following this will insure an excellent grade for the course.

______________________     __________
Student Signature          Date

______________________     __________
Faculty Signature          Date