Educator Preparation Program Application

All individuals enrolled in an educator preparation program are required to undergo a criminal background check before working in a public school, including observations, practicum, student teaching, and internships. School districts are responsible for background checks (TEC Sec. 22.0835) of individuals working on their campuses. If a district background check uncovers any criminal activity, the district will make the decision whether to allow completion of requirements on its campus. Criminal activity may impede the completion of course requirements and will prohibit ASU from recommending individuals to the State Board for Educator Certification (SBEC) for a Texas educator credential.

Candidates must submit fingerprints for national and state background checks before their application for a Texas educator credential can be processed. This check begins when the candidate applies for a Texas educator credential with the State Board for Educator Certification (www.sbectx.state.tx.us).

If the result of the fingerprint processing shows any criminal record or if a conviction is reported on your application for a Texas educator credential, your file will be referred to the SBEC Office of Professional Discipline for review. That office will contact the applicant regarding information needed to review records for determination of eligibility for a Texas educator credential. Issuance of the Texas educator credential will be determined by the results of a review.

If you have any questions, please contact the ASU Director of Certification at 942-2209.

Please check the box to proceed. This error appears if candidate does not check the box.

I have read and understand that results from national and state criminal background checks may negate my application for a Texas Educator Credential.

(The system takes a moment to process your request. Please select your response only once.)
This screen appears if a student does not agree to the disposition statement or the code of ethics. The application process stops.
