Organization: Community Development Initiatives

Mission Statement:
CDI is based on a belief that flourishing communities thrive on trust between individuals, organizations, and institutions. This trust demands that institutions make links to the community to deliver real, enriching, and fair rewards back to it. Linking the university to the community in support of community development is the core mission of CDI. CDI seeks to promote better communities for us all to live in through innovative faculty and student research and learning projects that support individuals and organizations working to find new, effective ways of facing the challenges to the overall development of San Angelo and surrounding communities.

Population serviced:
- All residents of San Angelo and Concho Valley

Services Provided:
- Community engagement
- Launch projects that spawn new knowledge and skills among faculty, students and community members for sustaining community development into the future.
- Data analysis and research assistance
- Lead the Census 2010 Complete Count effort
