LECTURES: Tuesday and Thursday, 9:30-10:45am

This course, Great Works in the Arts, will introduce students to great achievements in music and the visual arts throughout history. This semester, the arts component of the course focuses on the Seven Wonders of the World as a lens through which we can think about how people define greatness and human achievement. In the first four weeks of class, we will study the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World, including their history, cultural context, and impact on later art. In the second four weeks, we will consider the “New” Seven Wonders of the World, considering not just their history, but how changes in our society have shifted our perspective of what represents greatness in human achievement.

STUDENT LEARNING GOALS:

1. To gain a basic understanding of the course material.
2. To become familiar with history of the ancient Mediterranean world and its monuments.
3. To develop critical thinking skills.
4. To build visual skills.
5. To acquire writing skills in order to express clearly and effectively what you perceive through viewing.
6. To attain a proficiency in analyzing a work of art formally.

REQUIRED TEXT:

No text is required for this course. However, students may wish to purchase P. Clayton and M. Price, eds., The Seven Wonders of the Ancient World (Routledge, 1988) to supplement course lectures. Supplemental readings will also be provided by the instructor.
