4381 Special Topics – (3-0). Selected topics in English. (May be repeated once for credit when topic varies.)

Topic for this Course – Flash Fiction and Prose Poems. This course will survey two genres of brevity - flash fiction and prose poems. Students will read and analyze selections, and they will compose their own examples to better understand the genre conventions required of brief narratives and of poems written without the expected line breaks, but containing the characteristics of poetry.

Learning Goals
Upon completing this course, students should be able to
1. reflect upon and develop their reading expectations and practices,
2. identify and explain the conventional narrative elements of flash fiction,
3. identify and explain the conventional poetics of prose poems,
4. perform literary analysis of flash fiction and prose poems,
5. compose examples of flash fiction and prose poems.

SOME OTHER ISSUES

Absences – Given the brief and compressed nature of this class, each three-hour class meeting will include three 50-minute class periods. Being absent for six class periods will result in failure. Late work will not be accepted under any circumstances. All assignments must be submitted to receive a passing grade. No incompletes will be given.

Personal Emergencies – Given my experience, I know that sometimes things fall apart. If you encounter a personal tragedy or some emotional distress that causes you to miss classes, get in touch with me as soon as you can. I don’t need all of the details, but at least I’ll know you haven’t dropped the class or been eaten by a bear.

Academic Honesty - All work composed for this class must be written exclusively for this class and be your original work. You may of course receive assistance on your writing, but submitting someone else’s work as your own or failing to acknowledge sources appropriately will be grounds for plagiarism. Violations of academic honesty and plagiarism will result in immediate failure of this class. You are responsible for understanding the Academic Honor Code, which is available on the web at http://www.angelo.edu/forms/pdf/Honor_Code.pdf.

Special Requirements: Persons with disabilities who may warrant academic accommodations must contact the Student Life Office in order to request such accommodations prior to any being implemented. You are encouraged to make this request early in the semester so that appropriate arrangements can be made. For more information, see https://www.angelo.edu/services/disability-services/

Student Absence for Observance of Religious Holy Days
If you intend to be absent from class to observe a religious holy day, you should make that intention known in writing to me prior to the absence.
Initial Reflection

Your purpose in this assignment is to describe the degree to which you feel confident in your abilities to read, understand, appreciate, and analyze literature in all genres.

You will author a sufficiently focused, organized, developed, correct, and stylistically appropriate brief composition in the form of a multi-paragraph essay between 500 and 600 words from a third-person narrative perspective for an audience of your classmates and professor.

This essay should have an original title, use MLA document formatting, and a chronological sense of a beginning, middle, and end.

In other words, you will tell a brief story of yourself as a reader and the experiences that have led to your overall confidence in literary study.

However, because you will tell it from a third-person perspective, you will be writing about yourself from a more objective point-of-view, referring to yourself by name and related third-person-singular pronouns, such as he or she, him and her.
Midterm Reflection

Your purpose in this assignment is to describe the degree to which you feel confident in your abilities to read, understand, appreciate, and analyze flash fiction.

You will author a sufficiently focused, organized, developed, correct, and stylistically appropriate brief composition in the form of a multi-paragraph essay between 900 and 1000 words from a third-person narrative perspective for an audience of your classmates and professor.

This essay should have an original title, use MLA document formatting, and a chronological sense of a beginning, middle, and end.

In other words, you will tell a brief story of yourself as a reader so far this term recounting what you learned about (1) the special genre requirements of flash fiction and (2) the specific experiences in (a) reading and (b) writing flash fiction that have led to your overall confidence in literary study of flash fiction.

However, because you will tell it from a third-person perspective, you will be writing about yourself from a more objective point-of-view, referring to yourself by name and related third-person-singular pronouns, such as he or she, him and her.
Final Reflection

Your purpose in this assignment is to describe the degree to which you feel upon completing this class confident in your abilities to read, understand, appreciate, and analyze flash fiction and prose poems.

You will author a sufficiently focused, organized, developed, correct, and stylistically appropriate brief composition in the form of a multi-paragraph essay between 900 and 1000 words from a third-person narrative perspective for an audience of your classmates and professor.

This essay should have an original title, use MLA document formatting, and a chronological sense of a beginning, middle, and end.

In other words, you will tell a brief story of yourself as a reader is the second half of this term recounting what you learned about (1) the special genre requirements of (a) flash fiction and (b) prose poems and (2) the specific experiences in (a) reading and (b) writing flash fiction and prose poems that have led to your overall confidence in literary study of flash fiction and prose poems.

However, because you will tell it from a third-person perspective, you will be writing about yourself from a more objective point-of-view, referring to yourself by name and related third-person-singular pronouns, such as he or she, him and her.
Creating Titles

1. Copy out of your draft a sentence that could serve as a title.
2. Write a title that is a question beginning with What, Who, When, or Where. (Where Do Titles Come From?)
3. Write a title that is a question beginning with How or Why. (Why Are Titles Necessary?)
4. Write a title that is a question beginning with Is/Are, Do/Does, or Will. (Are Some Titles Better Than Others?)
5. Pick out of the draft some concrete image – something the reader can hear, see, taste, smell, or feel – to use as a title.
6. Pick another concrete image out of the draft. Look for an image that is a bit unusual or surprising.
7. Writing a title that begins with an –ing verb (Creating a Good Title).
8. Writing a title beginning with On (On Creating Good Titles).
9. Write a title that is a lie about the draft. (You probably won’t use this one, but it might stimulate your thinking.)
10. Write a one-word title – the most obvious one possible.
11. Write a less obvious one-word title.
12. Think of a familiar saying, or the title of a book, song, or movie, that might fit your draft.
13. Take the title you just wrote and twist it by changing a word or creating a pun on it.
14. Find two titles you’ve written so far that you might use together in a double title. Join them together with a colon.

In order to make the requirements of this class and your responsibilities as a student as clear as possible, I’ve created this document titled “Academic Performance Agreement.” Please read this information carefully because it outlines the kinds of behaviors, study habits, and attitudes necessary for success in this class, as well as in the University writing community at large. If you agree to the terms and conditions set forth below, please sign your name on one of the two copies I’ve provided you. By signing and returning this agreement to me, you commit yourself to the standards of conduct and academic performance listed below.

1. I understand that attendance is a requirement of the class and that 6 class period absences of any sort will result in automatic failure. I also understand that if I miss class that I should contact another student to discover what I’ve missed.
2. If I miss more than one class in sequence, I will contact the professor to let him know the reasons for my absences.
3. I understand that arriving late to class is inappropriate because it disrupts the class. I understand that the instructor will shut the door to the classroom when the class starts and that I will not attempt to enter the class after the door has been closed.
4. I understand that cell phones must be turned off before entering class. I understand if my cell phone rings during class I will be asked to leave the class.
5. I understand that this class has substantial reading and writing requirements. These requirements will demand that I manage my time carefully and schedule at least 6 hours of study time per week or 2 hours of study time for every one hour of scheduled class time.
6. I understand that I should be prepared each day to bring the text under discussion with me to class.
7. I understand that I should be prepared each day to share my responses to the reading assignments in class.
8. I understand that I will be required to contribute to class discussions and small group work in class. In other words, I will be required to speak in class, share my ideas, and respect the ideas of others.
9. I understand that any writing I submit must be my own and written exclusively for this class.
10. I understand that when I use the ideas of others in my writing that I must let my readers know whose ideas are whose and where I found them. I understand that plagiarism (or the failure to acknowledge the ideas of others appropriately) is a form of academic dishonesty and will result in failure.
11. I understand that I will benefit from discussing my ideas and writing with my family, friends, and other students. I also understand that I can get help with my ideas and writing in the Writing Center. However, I also understand that I should never claim someone else’s ideas or writing as my own.
12. I understand that I must adhere to the due dates for all writing assignments because late work will not be accepted or penalized, at the discretion of the instructor.
13. I understand that I should think of writing as a complex process of planning, drafting, revising, editing, and presentation. Consequently, I understand that I should schedule time to complete each of these tasks before submitting my work.
14. I understand that I can make an appointment with my instructor to talk about any aspect of the class, including course assignments, my writing, the required reading, extended absences or comments and grades on my writing.

I intend to fulfill the requirements for a _________ grade in this class.
