Course Objectives
This course is a studio-laboratory study of traditional and contemporary painting techniques. The development of individual expression will be explored using selective imagery and alternative means of image expansion. A continuation of compositional and concept development will be explored.

Course Description
Students will:
• Continue to develop a genuinely unique personal aesthetic
• Successfully prepare surfaces to accept oil and/or acrylic paint
• Develop balanced compositions and successfully demonstrate mastery of the media, tools, and techniques
• Develop a clear and concise thematic content
• Become familiar with the work of contemporary painters who work in similar themes as that of the student
• Learn to analyze their own work and interpret the work of others

Procedure
• Technical and historical information will be provided for course success. Lectures and demonstrations will be followed by class time utilized to develop individual projects.
• Students must have all materials ready for painting prior to course time: canvases stretched, primed, imagery, procedures, etc.
• During the process of painting the instructor will conduct individual reviews with the student to encourage painting success.
• Group critiques will be conducted during the semester.
• After painting completion the instructor will provide each student with a project grade. This grade will be utilized with unexcused absences and missed art major/minor meetings in the calculation of the final grade. (see: Project Evaluation/Course Criteria)
