COURSE DESCRIPTION
This course provides and overview of youth development principles utilizing an ecological framework (Brofenbrennar’s nested doll theory). As this time period is extremely formative for the lives of youth major theories and concepts from various fields will be examined through the lens of kinesiology. Special attention will be placed on the application of these principles with a sensitivity to context.

All readings will be provided by the professor.

Student Learning Outcomes
-Think critically & Examine the role of diverse settings in youth development outcomes.
-Prioritize & Understand key research in fields that address youth development including psychology, sociology and education while viewing these contexts through the lens of kinesiology.
-Propose & Design Youth Development theory, research, and practice are connected towards meaningful change
