For more information about Title IX in general you may visit michelle.boone@angelo.edu or the Director of Title IX Compliance/Title IX Coordinator at:

Students are encouraged to report any incidents of sexual misconduct directly to ASU's Office of Title IX Compliance.

Title IX at Angelo State University:

Sexual Misconduct:

Sexual misconduct is a broad term encompassing all forms of gender-based harassment or discrimination including: harassment, discrimination, sexual harassment, sexual violence, sexual assault, stalking, intimate partner violence, domestic violence, and dating violence. Sexual misconduct is a violation of Title IX.

The Office of Title IX Compliance and the Director of Title IX Compliance/Title IX Coordinator at: michelle.boone@angelo.edu

You may also file a report online 24/7 at ASU Crisis Helpline at 916-646-3155.

University Policies:

University Academic Honor Code:

Students are responsible for the honesty of their work. Misrepresentation, cheating, plagiarism, and the submission of work that is not one's own is academic dishonesty. Misrepresentation includes, but is not limited to, the use of any unauthorized materials in examinations. Academic dishonesty is a violation of the University Academic Honor Code.

Incomplete Grades:

"Incomplete" is entirely up to the professor's personal judgment. The grade "I" is given when the student is unable to make up the work for whatever reason, or when the student is working on a program that is not yet complete but for which a grade is warranted. For each day late, email me before it is due and we will work it out. For each day late, it is a zero.

Final Exam/Project:

The student needs to finish the mid-term exam and submit final project. The grade will be determined on a percentage scale:

Final Exam:

For the purposes of this course, a final exam is the culminating activity of the course. It is expected that the student will be able to demonstrate their ability to complete the course requirements and be able to apply the content of the course to real-world situations. The exam will be a comprehensive test of all the material covered in the course.

Mid-Term Exam as per COURSE SCHEDULE:

The mid-term exam is a comprehensive test of all the material covered in the course. It is expected that the student will be able to demonstrate their ability to complete the course requirements and be able to apply the content of the course to real-world situations. The exam will be a comprehensive test of all the material covered in the course.

Final Project:

The final project is a comprehensive test of all the material covered in the course. It is expected that the student will be able to demonstrate their ability to complete the course requirements and be able to apply the content of the course to real-world situations. The project will be a comprehensive test of all the material covered in the course.

University Policies:

Regardless of the students' academic standing, the university has policies that are designed to protect the rights of all members of the university community. These policies are intended to ensure that all members of the university community are treated fairly and with respect.

Discrimination:

Discrimination is a violation of Title IX. The Office of Title IX Compliance is responsible for enforcing these policies and coordinating efforts to prevent discrimination.

Harassment:

Harassment is a violation of Title IX. The Office of Title IX Compliance is responsible for enforcing these policies and coordinating efforts to prevent harassment.

Health and Safety

Health and safety policies are designed to protect the rights of all members of the university community. These policies are intended to ensure that all members of the university community are treated fairly and with respect.

Housing:

Housing policies are designed to protect the rights of all members of the university community. These policies are intended to ensure that all members of the university community are treated fairly and with respect.

Library:

Library policies are designed to protect the rights of all members of the university community. These policies are intended to ensure that all members of the university community are treated fairly and with respect.

Student Activities:

Student activities policies are designed to protect the rights of all members of the university community. These policies are intended to ensure that all members of the university community are treated fairly and with respect.

Title IX:

Title IX is a federal law that prohibits sex discrimination in any education program or activity receiving federal financial assistance. The Office of Title IX Compliance is responsible for enforcing these policies and coordinating efforts to prevent discrimination.

Survivors of Sexual Assault:

Survivors of sexual assault are protected under Title IX. The Office of Title IX Compliance is responsible for enforcing these policies and coordinating efforts to prevent discrimination.

Toll-Free Helpline:

The toll-free helpline is a resource available to all students and employees. It is a confidential, toll-free line that is available 24/7. The helpline is staffed by trained professionals who are available to assist with any concerns or questions.

Title IX at Angelo State University:

The Office of Title IX Compliance is responsible for enforcing these policies and coordinating efforts to prevent discrimination.

ASU Crisis Helpline at 916-646-3155.

Course wrap-up:

A summary of the course will be provided at the end of the course. This summary will provide an overview of the course content and will be provided to all students and employees.

Name: Clark, Robert M.

Title: Technical Collection of Intelligence

Technical Collection of Intelligence:

This course does not require a final examination, but does require a submitted assignment which will provide the means to assess student grasp of the concepts of space imagery. The assignment will provide the means to assess student grasp of the concepts of space imagery.

Lesson 3:

Lesson 3 focuses on content and skills that are important within the course.

Lesson 4:

Lesson 4 focuses on content and skills that are important within the course.

Objectives:

Objectives focus on content and skills that are important within the course.

Additional information:

Additional information is available on the course website. The course website is http://www.blackboard.com. For more information, contact the instructor at drt@angelo.edu.