Virtual Office Hours
I am available to answer questions over the phone or through Blackboard Collaborate at the following:

MW: 3-4PM
TR: 1-3PM

If these times do not work with your schedule, we can schedule an appointment on a day and at a time convenient for both of us.

Course Description: Advanced technique and practice in writing processes as well as in rhetorical, literary, and stylistic analysis.

Learning Outcomes:
This class will explore how “threshold” or foundational concepts in the field of Writing Studies might enhance or even change your concepts about what makes good writing and how to go about producing it. This course aims to help you learn the following:

• To gain a deeper understanding of how writing works in various contexts
• To demonstrate, through close analysis, how a rhetor adapts a text to a given context
• To gain a deeper understanding of how groups collaborate to get things done with writing
• To demonstrate, through close analysis, how a group adapts its rhetoric
• To reflect on how your identity and prior experiences shape your literacy acquisition

Required Text

We will read and discuss several selections from this text (not all of them), but I will also supplement the textbook with other relevant readings and concrete examples to illustrate textbook material and to help you complete major writing assignments. I will post supplemental readings (PDFs and web links) in Blackboard.
Weekly Learning Modules

Each week I will release a learning module that will detail learning goals, contain pre-recorded instructional videos, identify assignment guidelines and due dates, and include homework/writing assignment submission links.

Think of the learning module like a folder that contains all the resources for that week.

Weekly modules will be available the Friday prior at 11:59PM so you will have time to read through it and prepare for the following week. The Learning Modules page is set as our Blackboard page’s point of entry, so it is this first thing you will encounter when you log in.

I recommend getting into the routine of checking the learning module early in the week so you are aware of weekly deadlines.

Asynchronous Weekly Course Structure

This class will be delivered in an asynchronous format, which means you will not need to be virtually present in Blackboard at designated times during the week.

Common assignments and activities will have consistent due dates each week so they become routine.

- Reading Responses: Submit by 11:59PM on Wednesday
- Initial Discussion Board/Blog Postings: Post Thursday by 11:59PM, if assigned
- Discussion Replies: Post Saturday by 11:59PM, if assigned
- Weekly Learning Module: I will post each week's learning module at 11:59PM on Fridays.
- Major Writing Assignments: Major writing assignments will be due on Sundays at 11:59PM, if assigned for the week.

The table below provides a visual summary of weekly activities and due dates. However, these may change slightly to adjust for course needs, but I will try to keep them as routine as possible. Please see the weekly modules for assignment specifics for each week.

Virtual “Attendance” Policy

There is an attendance policy in this class. I will identify in the weekly learning modules what you will need to do in order to be counted “present” for the week. This will consist of doing things like completing designated discussion boards, blog posts, peer workshops, or a required student-professor conference. Be sure to check the weekly module for attendance requirements.

Unexcused Absences

- You can miss two weeks of class without penalty to your final grade, but it is still your responsibility to check Blackboard for due dates and any missed course material.

- Being absent does not exempt you from assigned readings, homework responses, peer workshops, student-professor conferences, or major writing assignment deadlines.

- If you miss more than two weeks’ worth of work, as designated in the weekly learning modules, your final grade will be lowered by five points for each absence.

- If you miss more than four weeks of work, you cannot pass the course.

Partial Presence

If you do a portion of the work required for weekly attendance, you will be considered “partially present.” Three “partially presents” are equal to one absence.

Absences Due to Illness or Other Emergencies

- If you test positive for COVID-19, you need to contact the Office of Student Affairs immediately so your professors may be informed.

- I sincerely hope this does not happen, but if you become ill to the point that you must miss class for more than the allowed two weeks, please contact me.

In order to be considered excused from attending class, one of the following types of documentation must be provided:

- Doctor’s note

- Official University document stating not to attend class on the day(s) missed

Exceptions to these policies will be made on a case-by-case basis.

For prolonged absences due to serious illness, emergency, or other crisis, please contact me as soon as you are able so we can discuss protocol for making up missed work.
Technology Requirements

Blackboard Access
The entire course will be taught through our course Blackboard page.

Microsoft Word
All typed work (writing assignments and homework) must be submitted in Microsoft Word format. You cannot upload links to Google Docs within Blackboard. Also, if you have a Mac, please know I cannot open Pages files.

As an ASU student, you have free access to Office 365, which includes MS Word. Visit the Office 365 website and log in with your ASU email and password. You can download the software onto your computer or compose and save writing within the site’s cloud-based storage.

Adobe Acrobat Reader
To download some of the reading assignments, you will need Adobe Acrobat Reader.

Technical Support
If you are having technical issues with Blackboard, contact technical support one of the following ways:

   Phone: 325-942-2911 or toll free at 1-866-942-2911
   Web: www.angelo.edu/services/technology/

Communication Outside of Class
If I need to contact you outside of class, I will email your Angelo State email address. Get in the habit of checking your email regularly.

When you send me an email, use professional email etiquette:

   • Send the email from your ASU student account;
   • Include the following:
     o an appropriate subject in the subject line,
     o a formal greeting (Dear Dr. Huffman,) o your name and the class you are enrolled in, and o a clear description of the question or issue;
   • Avoid using “textspeak” (e.g., all lower-case letters, acronyms, lack of punctuation among sentences) within this professional exchange because doing this establishes an informal tone, inappropriate for this writing situation, and it often makes your message difficult to read and understand.

I will do my best to respond to your email in 24 hours.
Grade Determination

Your semester grade will be determined as follows:

Course Writing Assignments

For this course, you will complete different types of writing.

- You will produce low-stakes writing such as reading responses, discussion posts, blog posts, and peer feedback. These forms of writing are assigned to have you work through and discuss the material, also referred to as “writing to learn.” I will not give you extensive feedback on these submissions. Instructions for these and their numerical values will be identified within the area where they are assigned.

- You will also produce major writing assignments, which require you to demonstrate and apply the knowledge you have learned. These are longer, more complicated pieces that should show more polish and substance than the low-stakes writing, and I will give you more extensive feedback on these pieces. The major writing assignments are the Rhetorical Analysis 1, Rhetorical Analysis 2, and the Personal Literacy History. I will post individual, detailed prompts and rubrics for these assignments in our course Blackboard page.

Students must submit all major writing assignments in order to pass the course.

Professor-Student Conferences

I will require you to conference with me about two of the major writing assignments. These meetings, which will take place through Blackboard Collaborate or over the phone, give us the opportunity to have focused, one-on-one discussions regarding your writing. I will announce the conference schedule at least a week prior to the conferencing period, and you will sign up for a day/time you are available to meet.

Be sure to schedule a reminder for your conference appointment and show up (over the phone or through Collaborate) on time. If you cannot make your time, notify me at least 24 hours prior to your appointment so that we can reschedule.

If you fail to attend, you will be counted “absent” for the week.
Late Pass
I understand juggling various aspects of your life throughout the semester poses a challenge. Once a semester I will give you a 48-hour extension to submit a major writing assignment late without penalty. You will need to inform me through email that you are using your late pass before the initial due date. I will not accept any other subsequent late assignments.

Late Work
I do not typically accept late major assignments after you have used the Late Pass. However, if an emergency prevents you from submitting an assignment on time, contact me as soon as possible, and depending on the circumstances, I will take your emergency into consideration. Please do not e-mail me assignments after the due date unless you have my approval.

For low-stakes assignments, I have a different policy.

- For reading responses, you will receive a 10% deduction for every day they are late. I will not accept them if they are not submitted by the end of the week (Sunday).
- For initial discussion and blog posts, you can submit them up to 24 hours late for credit, with a 10% deduction, but you will not receive credit if they are posted later than that because the point is to post them in time for peers to respond to them.
- For response posts, you can still get full credit for response posts if they are posted by the deadline, even if your initial post was late or you did not do an initial post. You can submit them up to 48 hours late with a 10% deduction per day. You will not receive credit for them if they are posted later than 48 hours.

Participation
Participation will constitute 15 percent of your final grade. I factor in the following when determining your participation grade: reading responses and discussions/blog postings.

Peer Review
Extensive research demonstrates that effective writers do not simply produce one draft and consider their writing complete; instead, they revise and produce multiple drafts in order to best respond to the writing situation at hand. When we read good writing, we can easily follow and understand it but do not see all the behind-the-scenes work the writer did to make the piece good. Producing multiple drafts is not the sign that you’re a poor or struggling writer—it’s what good writers do!

One method we’ll be using in this class to help you revise your writing is peer feedback, also known as peer review/editing. Your peers can often identify unclear or inaccurate information you may not be aware of and then offer strategies for better achieving your purpose and more clearly communicating this to a reader. Plus, your peers are writing the same assignment and thus may be able to offer tips for better conceptualizing and responding to the assignment prompt.

However, not all writers bring the same experiences with and knowledge of how to give and use peer feedback. Plus, you may have even had negative experiences with peer review in other classes. In this class, you and your peers will receive instruction in how to give and incorporate useful feedback, and you’ll get several opportunities to practice doing so.

Your grade for the peer review sessions will constitute 10% of your grade. All students will participate in writing workshops by way of Blackboard Discussion posts for each of the major writing assignments. We will discuss protocol and effective methods for giving and using peer feedback in class, and I will provide you with worksheets and rubrics for these activities. As with any routine, we will experiment and make changes in order to determine what most effectively serves the needs of the group and the individual.

Student Writing in the Classroom

I often bring student writing into the classroom for discussion. I do this because you can learn writing approaches, perspectives, and experiences from your peers' writing that are hard to learn from any other source. This means that each student might have their writing (anonymously) discussed by the whole class at some point. If you submit something you do not want me to share with others, please let me know when you turn it in. If you have concerns about this, please let me know.

As stated previously, you will produce some low-stakes writing that will be made public to the class through the blog and discussion board tools. Remember these posts can be read by everyone enrolled in the course. This course encourages different perspectives related to such factors as gender, race, nationality, ethnicity, sexual orientation, religion, and other relevant cultural identities. The course seeks to foster understanding and inclusiveness related to such diverse perspectives and ways of communicating. Please be aware of this as you post and respond within course blogs.

University Policies

Plagiarism Policy

Plagiarism is a type of academic dishonesty. It occurs when writers deliberately use another person's language, ideas, or materials and present them as their own without acknowledging the source. Or when one submits work previously submitted for a different course.

Types of Plagiarism

Plagiarism can include any of the following:
- Failing to properly quote material taken from another source,
- Failing to cite material taken from another source,
- Submitting writing that was written by another person or for another class, and
- Submitting writing that was substantially edited by another person.

Procedures for Handling Plagiarism Cases

If an instructor thinks a student may have plagiarized, he or she will follow these steps:
- Meet privately with the student to discuss the assignment in question and the evidence of plagiarism,
- Identify the appropriate consequence, and
- File a report with the Office of Student Services.

Possible Consequences

The instructor and the English Department Chair decide the academic consequence to be imposed, depending on the seriousness of the violation. Sanctions include the following:
- Adequately redo or revise the assignment in question,
- Fail the assignment in question,
- Fail the class, or
- Be subject to more severe sanctions imposed by the Dean of Students.

All students suspected of deliberate plagiarism will be reported to the Office of Student Services, who maintains a file of past plagiarism cases. The ASU Student Handbook further elaborates the Academic Integrity policy.
Accommodation Statement
If you have a documented disability (or think you may have a disability) and, as a result, need a reasonable accommodation to participate in this class or complete course requirements, contact the Student Affairs Office as soon as possible at 325-942-2047 or studentservices@angelo.edu. It is located in the Houston Harte University Center, Suite 112. To receive any academic accommodation, you must be appropriately registered with Student Affairs. Student Affairs works with students confidentially and does not disclose any disability-related information without their permission.

Observances of Religious Holidays
A student who intends to observe a religious holy day should make that intention known in writing to the instructor prior to the absence. A student who is absent from classes for the observance of a religious holy day shall be allowed to take an examination or complete an assignment scheduled for that day within what the instructor deems a reasonable time after the absence.

Title IX At ASU
The University prohibits discrimination based on sex, which includes pregnancy, sexual orientation, gender identity, and other types of Sexual Misconduct. Sexual Misconduct is a broad term encompassing all forms of gender-based harassment or discrimination including: sexual assault, sex-based discrimination, sexual exploitation, sexual harassment, public indecency, interpersonal violence (domestic violence and/or dating violence), and stalking. As a faculty member, I am a Responsible Employee, meaning I am obligated by law and ASU policy to report any allegations I am notified of to the Office of Title IX Compliance.

Students are encouraged to report any incidents of sexual misconduct directly to ASU’s Office of Title IX Compliance and the Director of Title IX Compliance/Title IX Coordinator:

   Michelle Boone, J.D.
   Director of Title IX Compliance/Title IX Coordinator
   Mayer Administration Building, Room 210
   325-942-2022
   michelle.boone@angelo.edu

You may also file a report online 24/7 at www.angelo.edu/incident-form.

If you wish to speak to someone about an incident in confidence, you may contact the University Health Clinic and Counseling Center at 325-942-2173 or the ASU Crisis Helpline at 325-486-6345.

For more information about Title IX in general, you may visit www.angelo.edu/title-ix.

Writing Center Information
The Writing Center is an academic support service available to all ASU students. Peer tutors help experienced and inexperienced writers with all steps of the writing process: locating an angle, writing a thesis, organizing ideas, developing paragraphs, locating grammar and punctuation errors, documenting sources, etc.; however, tutors do not edit or proofread papers. To learn more about their services, visit the Writing Center's website.
General Course Calendar

Note: This schedule provides the topics, readings, and due dates throughout the semester. I reserve the right to change homework assignments, class activities, and due dates based on class needs. Such changes will be announced in advance through Blackboard.

* Blackboard is abbreviated “Bb” throughout the calendar.
