MKT 4321 – International Marketing

Course Description/Overview

As global economic growth occurs, understanding marketing in all cultures is increasingly important. This course addresses global issues and describes concepts relevant to all international marketers, regardless of the extent of their international involvement. Not all firms engaged in overseas marketing have a global perspective, but all firms are affected by the competitive activity in the global marketplace.

The purpose of this course is to study, analyze, and develop solutions to marketing problems across international borders. An environmental/cultural approach to international marketing permits a truly global orientation and the student’s horizons are not limited to any specific nation or to a particular way of doing business in a single nation. Instead, the course provides an approach and framework for identifying and analyzing the important cultural and environmental uniqueness of any nation or global region.

Course Objectives

Learning Objectives:

Upon completion of this course, students will be able to...

1. Demonstrate knowledge of contemporary theory and practice in the field of international marketing through the assessment of three examinations.

2. Demonstrate competency in team building skills as well as interpersonal, oral and written communications by preparing and resenting a professional-quality international case analysis and in-class presentation.

3. Demonstrate analytical thinking, critical analysis, problem solving, use of technology and use of current information resources in the research and presentation of a professional-quality international case analysis and in-class presentation.

Course Philosophy and Additional Skills Developed

This course is designed to balance discussion and interaction with traditional lectures. Research has established that providing opportunities for active learning in the classroom usually improves the overall learning a student takes away from a course. Furthermore, the skills outlined below are critical to developing a desire for life-long learning required to succeed in your career of choice. With this in mind, this class and the lectures have been developed to engage students in discussion, small group work, and other activities to actively engage your participation. Therefore, the following ground rules are applied to the course:

1. Preparation: It is important that you read assigned material before class, as lectures are designed to expand, rather than review text material.

2. Professional conduct: Because of the nature of the class it is important that you practice professional behavior at all times. That includes:

   ✓ Regularly attending class
   ✓ Being on time for class
   ✓ No cell phones, newspapers, or non-class related material.
   ✓ All cell phones will be turned off and no texting is allowed.
✓ Respecting the rights of your fellow students by not carrying on conversations that would distract, disturb or disrupt others.

3. Individual accountability: All members of the class will be held responsible for their own learning as well as the learning within their individual case study team.

Class Schedule

The schedule is a guide to your class preparation. It is an estimation of where we will be as the semester progresses and not a binding contact. In addition to the assigned reading, additional class assignments may be made in class. Any modifications to the schedule or syllabus will be announced in class. It is the student’s responsibility to be aware of any changes.

Assessment Methods

Learning outcomes will be assessed through four exams, class participation, case study assignments and in-class presentations.

Course Textbook and Required Readings

The text is available directly from McGraw-Hill and includes the LearnSmart interactive reading tool and Connect, an electronic homework system.

It is imperative that students order the electronic package of text materials as described above for this course. This package includes an electronic version of the text (with interactive reading exercises) and electronic homework assignments. If students wish, they could also order a loose-leaf, printed copy of the text from the publisher when they purchase the electronic package.

Students can purchase the electronic version of the text and “join” this portion of the class at: https://connect.mheducation.com/class/o-seriki-spring-2021-tr-930-am

The loose-leaf textbook along with a code to access the electronic materials for the course is also available at the ASU Bookstore.

Other readings are assigned in a timely manner as needed and are provided to you as PDF, MS Word format, or a link to an online resource will be provided.

Angelo State University employs a letter grade system. Grades in this course are determined on a percentage scale:

A = 90 – 100 %
B = 80 – 89 %
C = 70 – 79 %
D = 60 – 69 %
F = 59 % and below.

A: Exams

The exams during the term will consist of essay and multiple choice questions given in the traditional format (given in class on the dates specified on the class schedule). SCANTRON answer forms will be provided at no cost to students during the term for the multiple choice questions.

The exams during the term will sample about evenly from both general concepts and the details presented in the text and in class.
Please keep in mind that being prepared and taking the exams during the allocated times is your responsibility. The exams are on the schedule and I urge you to mark them on your calendar now.

Make up exams will be given only for reasons deemed legitimate by the instructor and should be avoided if all possible. If you have to miss an exam for any reason, you must notify the instructor in advance, if you are ill or otherwise incapacitated a short email will suffice.

B: Case Study Presentations

The purpose of the presentations is to enhance interpersonal communication skills that are essential in today’s business environment.

Present the following:
1. Overview of the company or companies involved, address international aspects
2. Overview of the marketing issues
3. Discuss the root causes of the mistake or the reasons for the success
4. Discuss what can be learned from the case
5. Answer all questions presented by the author at the end of the case
6. If possible, bring us up to date on the company and the individuals involved

- Analyze any graphs or chats in the case
- Bring a copy of presentation to class the day you present. You may bring PowerPoint slides to class the day you present
- Present for at least 20 minutes in length

You will be given an opportunity to sign up for the case study on the first day of class.

C: International Marketing Plan
The learning objectives for the international marketing term project are fourfold.

1. To familiarize the student with the cultural environment of a country as the subject of the project and to facilitate cross-cultural understanding.

2. To provide the student with the opportunity to prepare a marketing plan for a product, which is being considered for marketing in a country they have selected. The project emphasizes the need to understand the environment as an essential step preceding the preparation of a marketing plan.

3. To effectively reinforce key concepts covered in this and other courses.

4. To stimulate students to expand their learning horizons through the identification of materials required to complete the project.
The project will require each team to select a country, a product and write four short papers. The first paper is a general survey of the country’s culture. The second covers the economy of the country including a thorough analysis of the distribution and marketing systems. The third paper is a market audit and competitive analysis of the country market for the team’s product. The final paper is the marketing plan for the product under consideration in the country selected.

Team product and country will be assigned during the second week of class. These assignments will be presented during the second, third, fourth, and last week of class (see course schedule for presentation dates). One copy of the power-point presentation will be presented to the instructor for use in grading the assignment.

The team presentation should be no longer than 20 minutes. Bonus points will be awarded for style and creativity in the presentation.

F: Attendance and Participation (5% of final grade):
This part of the assessment will be based on class attendance and your participation in the class.

Peer Evaluation
Each member of the group is expected to make equitable contribution to the overall group effort. Each team member will be expected to contribute to the organization effort (who should do what), quantity of work developed, quality of the work developed, and/or make a major contribution to the team dynamic (working together to brainstorm ideas, evaluate alternatives and make choices).

At the end of the presentation, each team member will have an opportunity to evaluate his/her team members’ contribution to the project based on specific evaluation criteria and provide feedback to the instructor. The evaluation forms, for this purpose, will be supplied to you. Peer evaluations will be confidential and could influence the individual class participation grades.

Part of the learning experience of this course involves learning to work as a team. This means that if you feel a group member or members are under-performing, you must pick up the slack. It also means that if you do not pull your weight, you can expect to receive a poor evaluation and your group project grades to be negatively affected. It is important to let your fellow group members know how they are doing. No one should be surprised at a poor evaluation. Each group member should be frank with the others in evaluating their performance and should let them know how they can improve throughout the team project. I do not expect to hear about group disputes and will not reassign members. Evaluations are the final work on group performance.

Response Time
- Exam grades will be made available within 24 hours after the exam is taken.
• Case analysis will be graded and returned to the students within a week of the assignment due date.
• Questions and all other inquiries will be attended to within 24 hours, except on weekends and holidays.

Missed/Late Work
Late assignments will be penalized one letter grade per class day.
