Article/Book Reviews
For each week, you may choose to write a reaction essay. There are 8 weeks of reading assignments, you can choose 6 out of 8. You can write a summary of the reading material and you can also critique some articles/book. Essays should be about 2 double-spaced, typed pages. Please use 12-point Times New Roman font and 1” margins. You do not need to include a reference page (unless you use outside sources), but you should follow proper APA format for citations in the text of your paper, especially if you use quotes. The reviews will be due on each Friday midnight.

Research Paper
This course is intended to give you an opportunity to begin one empirical research project on a topic related to correction. This project will involve the complete the literature review, from initial conceptualization to at least the development of the data and methods section. The final draft should be a paper that looks like the front section of a manuscript in a peer-reviewed journal, complete from Abstract to Literature Review section. Ideally, the manuscript should be around 10 pages double-spaced, excluding references.

Note: The best papers are not written once, but are instead edited and re-written many times. Work on the research paper will mirror this process. The research paper will be developed over the course of several stages and revisions. (Research Topic with Abstract Collection – 5 pts, Research Question – 5 pts, Introduction with Outline – 10 pts, First Draft – 10 pts, and Final Draft – 10 pts). See course schedule for due dates of each component of the paper.

Research Topic with 5 Abstract Collection: Define your research topic and find 5 empirical articles on your topic. Attach those 5 articles’ abstract with your topic and submit on the BlackBoard.

Research Question: Use one paragraph stating your research question(s).

Introduction and Outline: Complete your Introduction section and list an outline for the rest of the paper. The outline can be bullet-pointed or detailed. It depends on how prepared you are.

First Draft: It should have be a complete draft of the frontend of a peer-reviewed journal article, including Abstract, Introduction, and Literature Review.

Final Draft: After you submit your first draft, I will give you several comments and suggestions. Please address them accordingly.

After the semester, if you feel confident to develop this paper into a peer-reviewed journal article, feel free to contact me.
