COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course is designed to provide a systematic overview of American criminal justice systems (law, police, courts, and corrections). Through this course, students will acquire a comprehensive understanding of crime, justice, functions, and the complexity of the criminal justice system in American society.

Prerequisites

There are no prerequisites for this course.

Technical Skills Required for This Course

As with all online courses, students must be able to operate a computer and have the necessary technical skills to navigate around a web page. Additional technical skills are not a prerequisite for this course. However your computer must meet certain minimum requirements to operate Blackboard.

Time Spent on this Course

Students can expect to spend a minimum of 10 hours per week to complete all readings and assignments. The lessons themselves take as long as it requires the student to read the materials and watch or listen to media presentations.

COURSE OBJECTIVES/LEARNING OUTCOMES:

As a result of completing this course, the student will be able to:

- Identify and describe the various components of the United States' criminal justice system.
- Describe how the various components interrelate with one another in terms of their major functions.
- Integrate acquired comprehensive and analytical knowledge to current main criminal justice themes through online assignments.

COURSE ORGANIZATION

Lesson One: Ch 1. Crime and Criminal Justice

Lesson 1 defines the concept of criminal justice, introduces the three basic component agencies of criminal justice, traces the formal criminal justice process, and introduces the various perspectives on criminal justice.

Lesson Two: Ch 2. The Nature and Extent of Crime

Lesson 2 highlights crime statistics by defining the different types of crime, comparing and contrasting the methods to measure crime, and recognizing the trends in the crime rates with plausible explanations.

Lesson Three: Ch 3. Understanding Crime and Victimization

Lesson 3 is all about the study of Criminology: the nature, extent, cause, and control of criminal behavior.

Lesson Four: Ch 5. Public Policing and Private Security & Ch 6. The Police: Organization, Role, Function

Lesson 4 highlights the history of police: the early development of the police in England; the development of the police in colonial America; twentieth-century police reforms and the emergence of professionalism; the main events in policing between 1960 and the present. Also, it introduces the organization of police departments, compare and contrast the patrol function and the investigation function, and discusses the concept of community policing and problem-oriented policing.

Lesson Five: Ch 7. Issues in Policing

Lesson 5 discusses various issues in policing, such as who the police are; the police profession, police discretion, problems of policing; and use of force.

Lesson Six: Ch 8. Police and the Rule of Law

Lesson 6 introduces the restriction of the U.S. Constitution's Fourth and Fifth Amendments against police activities by requiring that they obtain a warrant before conducting a search and they must honor the Fifth Amendment's prohibition against forcing people in any custodial interrogation to incriminate themselves, respectively. Also, it discusses the exclusionary rule, including its extensions and exceptions.

Lesson Seven: Ch 10. Pretrial Procedures and Trial Procedure & Ch 12. Community Sentences

Lesson 7 reviews the trial process and explains the legal rights of the accused at trial. Also, it introduces the concept of community sentencing, the history of community sentences, and the effectiveness of probation and intermediate sanctions.

Lesson Eight: Ch 13. Corrections: History, Institution, and Population

Lesson 8 reviews the history of correctional institutions and compare and contrast jails vs. prisons.
