Course Information

Course Description

A study of the behavior of digital logic circuit elements, with an emphasis on applications in research instrumentation, industrial controls, and computer design.

Prerequisite and Co-requisite Courses

CS–2336 or CS–3304 or (PHYS–2326 and PHYS–2126)

Prerequisite Skills

Ability to use Blackboard.

Student Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

- Transform combinational logic information between truth tables, Boolean expressions, logic diagrams, schematic diagrams, and breadboard circuits.
- Transform sequential logic information between state tables, state diagrams, logic diagrams, schematic diagrams, and breadboard circuits.
- Transform integer numbers between signed and unsigned decimal, binary, octal, and hexadecimal representations.

Course Delivery

This is a face-to-face course with online components that students are expected to access in Blackboard.<sup>1</sup>

Required Texts and Materials

Digital Design, Mano/Ciletti, 5th or 6th edition

Technology Requirements

To successfully complete this course, students need to download and install the “Digital” logic simulator (a Java app) by H. Neemann. This is not technically required, since the simulator will be available on the computers in the electronics lab, but you will find it useful to have more immediate access when studying.

Communication

Faculty will respond to email and/or telephone messages within 24 hours during working hours Monday through Friday. Weekend messages may not be returned until Monday.

Written communication via email: All private communication will be done exclusively through your ASU email address. Check frequently for announcements and policy changes. In your emails to faculty, include the course name and section number in your subject line.

Virtual communication: Office hours and/or advising may be done with Collaborate.

Grading

Evaluation and Grades

Course grades will be determined as indicated in the table below.

Assessment	Percent of Total Grade
Worksheets	40
Midterm Exams	40
Comprehensive Final Exam	20
Total	100%

Grading System

Course grades will depend on completing course requirements and meeting the student learning outcomes.

This course uses the following grading scale:

A = 90.00-100 points

B = 80.00-89.99 points

C = 70.00-79.99 points

D = 60.00-69.99 points

F = 0-59.99 points (Grades are not rounded up)

Assignment and Activity Descriptions

The course is split into three main topics, with each topic split into 4 modules. In addition to lecture material presented in class, each module has several short, focused worksheets that may require writing solutions by hand, building a logic simulation using Digital, building a breadboard solution using the lab equipment, or a combination of these three methods.

Each worksheet is typically due on the same day it is assigned. Some worksheets may be assigned as homework, to be turned in at the beginning of class the next day. At the instructor's discretion, students may be allowed to complete some of the more complex hardware builds on the review/makeup day before each midterm exam.

At the end of each topic, a midterm exam will be given, requiring both handwritten solutions and a hardware build.

A comprehensive final exam will have the same format as the midterm exams, but without the hardware build.
