Course Information

Course Description

Welcome to Principles of Biology Lab! This lab is designed to develop and enhance your independent, investigative skills as a biologist by giving you hands-on, practical experience in expanding your science process skills. These are skills that will be necessary for biologists and health-care professionals alike. This semester you will collaborate with others in your lab and engage in scientific investigations in major conceptual areas in biology. By working in groups, you will also develop both verbal and written communication skills critical to effective transfer of information in biology.

Prerequisite and Co-requisite Courses

Students must take 1306 concurrently

Student Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

Develop science process skills

Test hypotheses and make predictions

Design experiments

Collect and organize data

Draw conclusions

Effectively communicate ideas and information

Use the library and internet as a resource critically evaluate sources of information for reliability and credibility

Course Delivery

This is a face-to-face course with online components that students are expected to access in Blackboard and via a Tophat lab manual¹

Required Texts and Materials

Heimann C.P. and D.P. French. 2021. Principles of Biology I – Biological Investigations.

FountainHead Press: Southlake TX. ISBN: 978-1-64485-275-0. This lab manual is ONLY available via TopHat. It is essentially an online book that allows you to submit assignments and answer questions online.

Information regarding purchase of lab manual will be provided during the 1st week of classes.

Technology Requirements

To successfully complete this course, students need:

Microsoft Office 365. You have access to this software as an ASU student. You must use the downloaded, not the web, version of this software. You are expected to complete assignments in both Word and Excel. Instructions for how to find and install this software will be provided in TopHat and on Blackboard

Communication

Faculty will respond to email and/or telephone messages within 24 hours during working hours Monday through Friday. Weekend messages may not be returned until Monday.

Written communication via email: All private communication will be done exclusively through your ASU email address. Check frequently for announcements and policy changes. In your emails to faculty, include the course name and section number in your subject line.

Virtual communication: Office hours and/or advising may be done with the assistance of the telephone, Collaborate, etc.

Grading

Lab constitutes 30% of your overall grade in 1306/1106. In addition, you will not pass the course if you fail the lab.

Points for the lab are earned as follows:

Component	Total Points
7 Lab Reports	105
Pre-lab Activities, Quizzes and Homework	195
Total Points	300

NOTE: It is the policy of ALL the lab instructors that NO late work will be accepted.

These points are capped at 300; however, there will be 330 points available—the “extra” points (30) can be “banked” and used as insurance (see below) to make up lab report points missed if you are absent.

Lab Report Re-grading Procedure: After each Graded Lab Report is returned to you, you should look over the document and determine why you lost points. If you find an error or disagree with the deduction, you may request a re-grade using the procedure outlined in TopHat.

What do you do if you miss a lab?

There are opportunities to earn points every week. There are an additional 30 points over the 300 point cap. If you have to miss lab, you may make up the points missed for that week by taking advantage of the few extra-credit opportunities and by completing all of the pre-lab and homework activities. If you complete these throughout the semester, you will have earned the “extra” points you might need if disaster strikes and you are forced to miss. Remember - you CANNOT attend other lab sections - the ONLY way to earn points for labs you miss for ANY reason is by using any additional points earned over the cap.

You MUST earn 180 points (60%) to pass the lab and thus the course.

Attendance: Due to the collaborative nature of this lab, it is CRITICAL that you attend lab every week. Why?

- Many of the investigations are designed to take two weeks to complete. If you miss one week of the investigation, your partners have to take up the slack for you AND you miss information critical to successfully completing the lab.

- You MUST attend the lab section for which you are registered. You WILL NOT be allowed to attend any other lab section during the same week. Again, this is because you complete the work as a group. You will not be allowed to disrupt another group's work in another lab AND you don't want to leave your own group short-handed. There are NO EXCEPTIONS so don't even ask.

- Your lab will meet on the same day at the same time every week. So don't schedule doctor or dentist appointments, vacations, or work at that time. We understand that emergencies or other circumstances beyond your control can happen and that you might have to miss lab. If so, it is your responsibility to contact your instructor and your partners AS SOON AS possible.

- There are NO MAKE-UPS. If you miss an opportunity to earn points due to an absence you can't make up the assignment. We have structured the grading system (see above) so that you can earn points that can be "banked" and used to make up the POINTS that you missed. So while you can't make up the assignment, you will have opportunities to make up the points if you just take advantage of them.

Use of electronics for non-class related activities: More and more students are bringing their laptops/tablets, etc. to class to take notes. In lab, having your laptop with you so that you can work together to complete the assignment is welcomed and encouraged. Sadly, some students use these devices for non-class related activities. Viewing movies, videos, checking social media, etc. can be distracting to other students. This will not be tolerated. You will be given one warning and then asked to leave. You will have to make an appointment with your instructor to be allowed reentry to class.

Lab Safety: Lab is conducted in a manner to ensure that everyone is able to learn in a safe environment. Students are required to take a Chemical Safety Training BlackBoard Course before you can attend lab following the first week of lab. The course will eventually be part of your course feed in BlackBoard. If you have already taken the course for another class, you do not have to take it again. You must pass the Chemical Safety Training class with a grade of 90 or better on the quiz. You may take the quiz as many times as necessary. Please contact your lab instructor if you have any problems accessing the quiz.
