HONORS 3381-H20: Senior Seminar
Spring 2021 – H10
12:00 MW
Academic 119

INSTRUCTOR:  Dr. Shirley M. Eoff
OFFICE: Library 302B
OFFICE PHONE: 942-2722
OFFICE HOURS: 3:00 to 4:00 p.m. daily or by appointment
EMAIL:  shirley.eoff@angelo.edu

COURSE OVERVIEW:  Honors 3381 is designed to engage students in a critical examination of select issues that are significant, multidisciplinary in nature, and often controversial with the intent of bringing together varying academic perspectives to provide deeper understanding of the complexity of contemporary issues. Students will collectively and independently investigate key issues in health care, technology, politics/geopolitics, and economic and cultural disparities with attention to the intertwined political, economic, scientific/technological, and social/cultural implications of the topic under consideration.

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES:  At the end of the course, students will be able to:

- demonstrate a general understanding of the complex interplay of political, social/cultural, scientific, and economic aspects of select contemporary issues
- gather, analyze, and critically evaluate information in the student’s chosen academic field that relates to or impacts the selected topics
- interact collaboratively with individuals with diverse viewpoints and experiences
- independently research and demonstrate a proficient understanding of the complexity of a multidimensional issue (i.e., some combination of scientific, social, political, and economic implications) related to the student’s major
- present information effectively in both written and oral formats

METHODS OF ASSESSMENT:  Student learning outcomes will be assessed through a variety of written and oral presentations outlined more fully below along with expected contributions to classroom discussion.

REQUIRED READING:  There is no required text for the course. Individual students will find and read 12 to 20 pages from scholarly articles related to some element of the assigned topic each week. The reading should relate to the student’s general academic path (sciences, business, social sciences, humanities, arts) when possible to allow for a sharing of ideas and approaches from a variety of perspectives. Highly technical material is not appropriate for a course of this nature, except perhaps for the independent research paper.

COURSE PROCEDURE:  This seminar is designed to encourage an interchange of academic ideas about and approaches to significant issues and concerns facing our nation today. The instructor’s role is to facilitate discussion and to provide responses to students’ written and oral presentations. Students are expected to attend all classes, complete readings and assignments prior to the class assigned, listen attentively and respectfully to peers, and contribute informed insights from their own academic studies and personal experiences to the weekly discussion. Students are expected to approach the discussions with an open mind and a willingness to consider various viewpoints reflective of the diverse population of the American nation and the complexity of a globalized world.

COURSE DELIVERY/ATTENDANCE: This course is a face-to-face class, and in-person attendance is expected as there is no specific content to deliver via lecture; student presentations and discussions form the bulk of the weekly coursework, and it is not possible to “make up” missed discussions. Alternate arrangements may be made for serious illness, family emergencies, and absences for university-related travel upon timely notification of the instructor.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS: Each student will be responsible for the following:

1. Reading and Reflection Journals: Each student will complete a typed reading and reflection journal with two entries per week most weeks. Journals will be collected and assessed by the instructor approximately every 5 weeks.
   - The first journal entry each week will be over the student’s individually-selected scholarly articles and must be completed before the assigned class. In the event of physician-ordered absence or university-approved travel, contact the instructor prior to the absence for instructions.
   - The second entry—a broader reflection on the multiple dimensions of the topic incorporating information presented by peers and through the class discussion—should be completed by the end of the week to ensure that the information is fresh and thorough. Entries must show attention to broad scientific, economic, political, and social/cultural implications and show evidence of engagement with peer and professor comments.
   - The final journal will be over the individual and group research presentations.

   Note: Late work will be penalized in fairness to those students who completed the work as assigned. Late journal submissions will receive a maximum 80% of the assigned points.

2. Independent Research Paper: Students will write an 8 to 12-page research paper (excluding references and bibliography/works cited) on a topic approved by the instructor. Students will present a 20-minute report on the individual research paper with PowerPoint or other visual representations.

3. Policy Proposal: Students will produce a 750-word policy proposal on a relevant issue derived from the independent research paper and give a 5-minute oral presentation.

4. Group Research Project: Students will be assigned in groups of four or five to research an issue and present it to the class. Group peer evaluations will form a portion of each group member’s grade.

The instructor will provide additional instructions regarding formatting, documentation, and source selection for written assignments as the assignment date nears.

5. Daily Preparation and Performance: Students are expected to openly and respectfully engage in class discussion and give attention to peer presentations. Due to continued COVID concerns regarding group work, students should be prepared to give a 5-minute presentation on the key points of their article(s) at each class period. The preparation and performance grade will be determined by

- attendance (you cannot perform if you are not in attendance) – 3 pts. per class = 90 possible pts.; tardy arrivals receive 2 pts. if within the first 5 minutes, 1 pt. within the first 10 minutes, and 0 pts. for later arrivals. You cannot submit reflections on weekly discussions if you were not present. For excused absences (university-sponsored travel, physician-ordered absence/quarantine/isolation, a serious family issue), alternative arrangements or assignments will be made on a case-by-case basis.
- in-class discussion of weekly readings and topics (instructor’s assessment of the overall engagement, the quantity, quality and relevance of contributions to class discussion, and the ability to link the work to issues in their own disciplines) – up to 110 pts.

EVALUATION: Grades will be computed on the following scale.

Papers are subject to be evaluated for originality via Turnitin or other resources. Dishonesty in presenting work will result in a meeting with the instructor to determine the extent of penalties, ranging from redoing the assignment with a penalty to a “0” on the assignment, and proper understanding of academic and professional citation standards. Repeated violations will result in failure of the course and referral for university disciplinary action.
