Course Objectives

This course is a studio-laboratory study of traditional and contemporary painting techniques. The development of individual expression by using design elements and principles, technique, color theory, and concept development will be emphasized.

Course Description

Students will:

- Learn methods utilized in preparing surfaces to accept oil & acrylic paint
- Develop balanced compositions and successfully demonstrate mastery of the media, tools, and techniques
- Develop thematic content
- Become familiar with the work of contemporary painters
- Learn to analyze their own work and interpret the work of others

Procedure

- Technical and historical information will be provided for course success. Lectures and demonstrations will be followed by class time utilized to develop individual projects.
- Students must have all materials ready for painting prior to course time: canvases stretched, primed, imagery, procedures, etc.
- During the process of painting the instructor will conduct individual reviews with the student to encourage painting success.
- Group critiques will be conducted during the semester.
- After painting completion the instructor will provide each student with a project grade. This grade will be utilized with unexcused absences and missed art major/minor meetings in the calculation of the final grade. (see: Project Evaluation/Course Criteria)

A 100 - 90	Excellent	D 69 - 60	Below Average/Poor
