Exhibits

Note: Each exhibit required a prospectus that included a budget, analysis of artifacts, construction data, and shipping arrangements. Additionally, I carried out field research in archives, libraries, and museums to gather information for the exhibits. Certain exhibits required travel and research in Mexico. In most cases, I supervised the construction of the exhibits and production of the exhibit catalogue. I also delivered a formal presentation to groups who visited the museum. Unless otherwise indicated, I served as the head curator of the exhibits listed below.

Fall 2008      The Battle of Ojinaga. Southwest Collection, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Texas.

Fall 2007      The Mexican Revolution of 1910. West Texas Collection, Angelo State University, San Angelo, Texas.
